SETTLERS TO BE GIVEN ASSISTANCE

Phoenix, Ariz., Nov. 21.—The Republican party of Arizona is pledged to free text books in the public schools.

Just what that means can only be appreciated by the fathers and mothers possessed of large families and small incomes. It does not mean the extension of charity in any form. The public furnishes school houses and school teachers, it furnishes heat and light and toilet accessories, it furnishes blackboards and chalk and erasers and maps and globes, why should it not furnish text books? is asked.

The Republican party of Arizona, realizing the value of education as a factor in the upbuilding of good citizenship has pledged itself to do everything in its power to promote education by pursuing a liberal policy in the matter of providing school buildings, good teachers and good equipment, including free school books.

"The public school is the bulwark of the Republic," reads the Republican platform, "and we favor a progressive policy of extension and improvement of the system and pledge liberal support to all measures looking to that end."

The Labor Platform.

The workmen of Arizona are comparing the labor plans of the Republican and Democratic platforms. The latter says: "We pledge the constant efforts of the Democratic party toward the full protection of the rights of labor," about as meaningless a phrase as can be imagined and one which might have been written by the bitterest foe of organized labor without a twinge of conscience.

The Republican platform says: "We advocate liberal exemption laws and that heads of families shall be exempted by law from taxation on property to the extent of $250."

"We pledge such legislation looking to the fixing of responsibility for wages due from corporations to their em-

Arizona Making Good Citizens

State Industrial School Is Proving a Great Blessing to Boys Who Are Left Without Restraining Influences.

By G. A. MARTIN.

BENSON, Ariz., Nov. 21.—Arizona is making men of a number of personable and incorrigible boys here at Benson at the state industrial school.

It used to be called the "reform" school but the name has been changed and it is teaching from 60 to 100 boys every day how to become better citizens.

Boys may be sentenced to the institution for incorrigibility or delinquency, and they are also accepted when they are left without parents and have no means of bringing themselves up except in the streets, but criminals are not taken.

There are 66 boys in the place at present and they all seem happy and pleased with their lot. The pioneer of the institution is an orphan and has been here three years. He says that likes the place and is going to stay until he can go out into the world and make a living for himself. Some of the boys believe to widowed mothers who are unable to control them; some have both parents living, parents who could not keep them out of mischief.

Here at the state industrial school, they are put out of mischief and it doesn't seem a hard task and they all seem to be getting on well. The boys like the discipline, but the institution is conducted as far different from a prison as it could possibly be. There is no more on the windows and no high fences to keep them in. The 40 acres plot that forms the grounds of the institution is a lovely place, surrounded with an ordinary wire fence without barbed wire and without any time, but they do not run away at

telegraph operator, is teaching a class of boys to be able to turn out some capable operators. The work is entirely voluntary on his part, and also entirely voluntary on the part of the boys. The officials are carrying out a splendid idea with excellent results, but there is so much more to improve in the first stages of development as yet, because the possibilities are so many in their work, which is probably why the boys are so enthusiastic, but they haven't a chance with that they need and wish for.

While the institution is primarily for boys, there are eight girls in one wing of the building. They are taught to sew, and also to make their own bedding and mothers the sick ones.
There is also a matron for the boys, who looks after their clothing and There is a carpenter shop and a shoe shop in the institution, and many of the boys are taught considerable of these trades. The shoemaker is regularly employed, and like the cook and the farmer, has helped the boys. The farmer also does the carpenter work and gives the boys what instruction he is able to give. The institution is

CAMPAIGN IN ARIZONA IS HOT

Maricopa County a Real Batleground—Some Republican Speculation

(By Chas. C. Cuteshaw.)

Phoenix, Ariz., Nov. 21.—The Maricopa county Democratic candidates have adopted a unique system of campaigning. There are 21 of them in all and they are traveling in a body all over the county, meeting the voters and delivering speeches. Because of the size of the brigade they cannot all speak on the same evening so they are taking turns in handing out the oratory.

Jefferson Davis Adams, otherwise "Jeff," who is the nominee for sheriff, is easily the most popular speaker. The secret of Adams' popularity lies in the fact that he is an Arizona pioneer, an old time scout and Indian fighter. He is a deputy under sheriff Fred Hayden, who has been nominated by the Democrats as their candidate for congress.

The sheriff's office, by the way, is fairly well represented on the Democratic ticket. In addition to the two men named C. E. Wood, under sheriff of the county, is a candidate for the state senate. He was talked of for the corporation commission, but chose to make the race for a legislative office.

Oppose Court of Commerce.
According to the statement of Leon S. Jacobs, one of the Democratic candidates for the legislature, in the event of Democratic success at the coming election, the state lawmakers will memorialize congress demanding the abolition of the national court of commerce. The reason is the action of this court in issuing a restraining order holding in abeyance the freight rate reductions in western cases recently allowed by the interstate commerce commission. This reduction affects Arizona materially and there is much indignation here over the action of the commerce court. There is a strong feeling here, anyway, against all federal courts, particularly among the socialist element of the Democrats, which is in the majority. So it is altogether probable that such a memorial would be adopted easily.

The Tax Rate.

The tax rate is also entering into the campaign.

A few years ago the territorial rate was $1.17. It is now 65 cents. The Republicans point to this fact and are using it as an argument in favor of Republican efficiency. The Democrats, on the other hand, say it is due solely to the effect of an increase in the value of taxable property.

Outside Speakers.

There will be more and more oratorical fireworks as the campaign progresses.

In addition to the former governor Joseph W. Folk, of Missouri, who will be brought here by the Democratic state committee toward the close of the campaign, an effort is on foot to secure William J. Bryan for several speeches. Bryan is said to look upon the campaign as an effort to secure his son's residence in the state and he has often visited here and is personally acquainted with most of the Democratic leaders.

A Close Contest.

The prettiest fight in Maricopa county is between J. Henry Langston, Democrat, and William W. Phillips, Republican, candidates for superior judge. Phillips is the present probate judge and is almost the only Republican to hold a county office within the memory of the oldest inhabitant.

He has had the office for two terms, which indicates that he is something of a campaigner.

Langston is relying largely on the natural Democratic majority, which will probably be anywhere from 200 to 300. Phillips is perhaps the only Republican county candidate who has managed to get elected according to general belief. Many of the Democrats claim that the ultra-radical Republicans are going to vote with them this year.

"Take it from me," a Democratic county candidate said yesterday, "the 'progressive' Republicans are going to vote the Democratic ticket. I hear it everywhere. I think the county will be Democratic by 500 or more."

Sloan's Ex-Secretary.

It is freely predicted by the Republicans and also by many Democrats that J. Fred Cleveland, Republican candidate for secretary of state, will carry Maricopa county. His opponent is Sidney Osborn, a local newspaper reporter. Cleveland is also strong in the south, where he formerly lived, and in Yavapai county.

Mr. Cleveland is less than 46 years of age, but has risen to the position of a substantial and growing bank in this city and is known throughout Arizona as a man of exceptional business ability. He was formerly secretary to governor Sloan, a position which he resigned about a year ago.

The New Who Who.

Richard E. Sloan, governor of the territory, George U. Young, secretary, Judge Kent, chief justice of the supreme court, justices Doe, Don, Campbell and Lewis, Republicans are going to attorney Joseph E. Morrison will all after the election be in "the lame duck" class.

The question is: How many of them will be taken care of by the national administration?

Judge Kent, Doe and Don are candidates for the supreme bench. Judge Kent has the best chances and these cannot be said to be very bright. He is probably the only one of the three who would have much of a "pull" with the administration; and there is talk in some circles that the position of United States district attorney has been reserved for him. Morrison's friends think he will be reappointed, however.

With governor Sloan it is different. He has a genuine bona fide claim. Sloan's training is judicial and all his inclinations are in that direction. He has been promised a federal judgeship by president Taft and accepted the office of governor only at the personal request of the president in order to straighten out a bad political tangle. Governor Sloan and president Taft are old time friends. Mr. Sloan's old home was in Hamilton County, Ohio, the president's own homelink. He came here 30 years ago and has been an excellent judge and an equally excellent governor, but he is not much of a politician.

Sloan May Land.

There was an understanding between the president and governor Sloan, at the time of Sloan's appointment to the gubernatorial position, when the first one became a state or a federal available opportunity, he should be made a federal judge; and the time for the fulfillment of that promise is at hand. Democrats say they will fight his ratification by the senate and they expect to get the vote of the Progressive insurgents in the fight. But the governor's friends profess no fear of the outcome in the event such a fight should be made.

The other "lame ducks" will probably have to shift for themselves.
